The diagram illustrates a hierarchical tree structure. It begins with a single root node at the top, which is a red rectangle. This root node branches into two child nodes, both of which are red rectangles. Each of these red nodes further branches into two blue rectangular nodes. This pattern of branching continues, with red nodes branching into blue nodes and blue nodes branching into red nodes, creating a series of alternating levels. The tree structure is shown in a stepped, descending manner from left to right. At the bottom right, the branches converge into a single black rectangular node, representing the final output or root of the structure.
